A VILLAGE PATRIOT.

The footway from Hamptonwick, through Bushy Park, (a Royal demesne) to Kingston, upon Thames, had been for many years shut up from the public. An honest Shoemaker, Timothy Bennet, of the former place, "unwilling (it was his favorite expression) to leave the world worse than he found it," consulting the attorney upon the practicability of recovering this road for the public good, and the probable expense of a legal process for that purpose—"I do not mean to cobble the job," said Timothy, "for I have seven hundred pounds, and I should be willing to give up the awl, that great folks might not keep the upper leather wrongfully. The lawyer informed him that no such sum would be necessary to try the right. "Then, (said the worthy shoemaker,) as sure as soles are soles, I'll stick to them to the last;" and Lord Halifax, the then Ranger of Bushy Park, was immediately served with the regular notice of action; upon which, his Lordship sent for Timothy, and on his entering the Lodge, his Lordship said with some warmth, "and who are you that has the assurance to meddle in this affair?" "My name, my Lord, is Timothy Bennet, Shoemaker, of Hamptonwick. I remember, a'nt please your Lordship, to have seen, when I was a young man sitting at work, the people cheerfully pass by my shop to Kingston market; but now my Lord, they are forced to go around about, through a hot sandy road, ready to faint beneath their burthens;—and I am unwilling to leave the world worse than I found it. This, my Lord, I humbly represent as the reason why I have taken this work in hand." "Begone," replied his Lordship, "you are an impertinent fellow." However, upon mature reflection, his Lordship, convinced of the equity of the claim, began to compute the shame of a defeat, by a shoemaker, desisted from his opposition, notwithstanding the opinon of the crown Lawyers, and re-opened the road, which is enjoyed by the public without molestation to this day. Honest Timothy died about two years after, in the 77th year of his age, and was followed to the grave by all the populace of his little villiage.

A punster observing two sheriff's officers running after an ingenious but distressed author, remarked that it was a new edition of the "Pursuits of Literature," unbound but hot pressed.

BARON LARREY.

It is principally to Baron Larrey that military surgery, owes its present state of perfection: before his time the wounded were never thought of until the battle was over, the surgeons wisely keeping their stations, at least a league in the rear of the army;—The humanity of Napoleon, aided by the Baron suggested the mode of dressing their wounds on the field of battle, when the cases required it; he also invented cars for transporting the moment they fell, by which he saved many thousand valuable lives, which may easily be conceived, when it was known that he was Napoleon's principal military surgeon in all his campaigns, from the commencement of his career to the battle of Waterloo—when the Baron's usual intrepidity and zeal was nearly fatal to him, for he received a severe wound in the head, fell, and remained two days on the field of battle, and when discovered was taken for Napoleon, being very like him, when he again ran the risk of his life from ignoble vengeance—On his return to Paris, the king stripped him of all his power, but it would have had the appearance of injustice, to entirely lay aside the first military surgeon of the world—therefore his most christian majesty has most graciously pleased to suffer him to continue his functions as surgeon in chief of the military hospital of the royal guard. His loss, besides his practice, from the paternal regulations of he most christian majesty, is 1800*l.* annum.

ALEXANDRIA:
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8 1817.

LETTER TO MR. QUÆRO.

Mr. Quæro,

The most powerful engine which you have employed, or which you could have employed, to excite prejudice against the creed of catholicity, is the charge of intolerance, which you have preferred against it. Acts of tyranny and cruelty are unquestionably more calculated to exasperate the human mind, to engender or resuscitate prejudices and keep them alive, than any other cause whatever.—No matter whether these cruelties were committed without any semblance of authority or not, no matter whether or not they have been condemned and reprobated by the great majority of the community, still, however, among men of ordinary habits, the imputations of tyranny and cruelty will attach to the whole body.—This is precisely the case with the Catholic church. Acts of tyranny and cruelty have been performed by Catholics; even mistaken notions of religion may have prompted them; but it is unfair and unjust to pronounce them the consequences of Catholic principles. It cannot excite the astonishment of any reasonable man that in the Catholic church, which has existed and been spread over the universal world for the period of eighteen hundred years, numerous faults and crimes should have existed. You may unfold the dark page of Catholic scandal, and retail each act which has disgraced the professors of Catholicity since its commencement, but this will prove nothing more than that Catholics are men. Read the history of infant Protestantism, and you find that Protestants too have been men. I will even venture to assert that human weakness has been at least as predominant in the pale of Protestantism as within the precints of Catholic unity. In the commencement, each sect, generally speaking, was intolerant and cruel. The English church, which you have sometimes professed to admire, has not quite existed 300 years, and yet I am confident it may be proved that the contracted insular church of Britain has exercised more acts of tyranny and cruelty that the widely extended Catholic church in an equal period. If this be true, either you should cease to blame the Catholic church, or else command the reformation to bare her shoulders to your severe chastisement. A little candid reflection on this subject would convince you that the church from which yours sprung is not quite so wicked as you have been led to think; this will be a thought of pleasure to a grateful descendant and to a benevolent mind

But I have undertaken to prove the Cathotic church infallible, and I am convinced that the importance of the subject will authorise me to resume it.

Every one who lays claim to the most distant acquaintance with religion knows, that faith or the belief of truths revealed by the Redeemer is essentially prerequisite for salvation. Truth is simple, and in every bearing decisively opposed to falsehood. By the belief of truth only God can be honored, and not by crediting falsehood. Among all the different creeds then, which exist, or which can exist, only one can be true, only one revealed by the Redeemer; because, as they are all different and opposite, they are opposed to each, and all opposed to one, they are all but one, opposed to truth. If this were not the case, they would not be different creeds. If they were not all false except one, God could be the author of falsehood; for, by revealing opposite creeds, he would reveal something which is opposite to truth. It can never be true that Christ is present in the sacrament, and at the same time that he is not present there. Then, either your creed or mine is false; therefore, the belief of one of them displeases instead of pleasing and honoring God.—The same may be said of every creed in the universe: as they are all different or opposite, only one of them can be true; for truth being only one, every opposition or difference from it is falsehood. Then, as faith is an essential part of religion, ("without faith it is impossible to please God," St. Paul) as the object of faith is essentially truth, and as truth can only be one, then there is only one true religion and one true church.

In this true church, "its founder and perfecter," Jesus Christ, wishes that all should believe what is true, and that they should remain in the profession of this one faith. "Solicitously preserve unity of faith," says St. Paul, Ep. 4, for "there is only one God and one faith." (Ibid.) "All say the same thing, that there be not schisms among you, that you be perfect in the same sense and in the same opinion." (1 Cor. 1.) If God wish all the members of the true church to believe the same creed, then he has given them some means to preserve this unity of faith; for it were blasphemy to assert that God wished to gain any object, and did not employ adequate means to accomplish that object. Then, in the true church, there is some adequate principle of unity. This cannot be the principle of Protestantism, for that no sooner began to operate than irreconcileable divisions were the consequences. The great and multifarious variety of religions in the world is the natural product of the operations of the principle of Protestantism. The principle which I mean is, that "the scripture is the only rule of faith." That this principle is incapable of producing a lasting unity of faith, I attempted to prove in my last letter, and I will only make one more remark here on the subject—Ever since the beginning of this controversy, both you and I have acted on Protestant principles; that is, we have both argued on the merits of the religious question discussed, and our own ideas of them; I have never told you, nor have you ever told me, that any tenet discussed must be true or false because an infallible tribunal has pronounced it so.—We have both been serious, and both honestly sought for the truth; interest or passion have had no influence with us. But we are still at variance, and probably shall never entirely agree; and pray, sir, what can be the reason of this? The cause must be sought for in the principles which we have pursued. Our own private judgment and the scripture are not sufficient to produce or to preserve unity of faith; and yet in the true church (as proved above) there must be some adequate principle of unity. I make no doubt but that you sincerely and honestly believe the non-existence of the personal presence of Christ in the eucharist, and, if I know myself, I believe as sincerely the real presence. Both of us may study the scripture both by day and by the midnight lamp till our departure from this world, and probably we might never agree in faith; and yet we might both be sincere in the discussion. Since the reformation instances of this nature may have happened. Indeed, instances may easily happen if no recourse be had to infallibility. Yet, however, God wishes both of us to be of the same belief. Then the scripture alone cannot be an adequate principle of unity; but there must exist some infallible tribunal, before which our disputes may be set at rest. Without it God wishes unity of faith, yet denies us the power to be of one belief.

Besides being one in faith, the true church of Christ must be holy. If it be not infallible, it cannot be holy. If the true church be not infallible, it may err; if it err, it will teach tenets which are false; it that be the case, its doctrine will be opposite to the doctrine of Christ, which is the rule of holiness. Its doctrine will be opposed to the will of God, for God wishes it to teach truth not falsehood: what is opposed to the will of God is certainly unholy. Therefore, if the church teach doctrine opposed to God's will, it will be unholy; it may teach doctrine opposed to this will, if it can err, and it can err if it be not infallible:—Therefore the true church which is holy is infallible. Yours, M. B.

P. S. Since I wrote the above I have seen your letter of Saturday. There is in it much abuse and little argument; to the former I shall make no reply; in abuse I willingly yield you the proud palm of victory. To your arguments, (if amidst the surrounding farago of invective I can discover and drag them to light) I will reply as soon as I conveniently can. I cannot, however, leave one remark of your's on the infallibility of the church unnoticed. You say some place it in the Pope, some in a general council, some in the church dispersed, some in the church militant. This is an unfair statement. ALL believe it to exist in the church assembled in general council, and in the united consent of chief pastors, in union with the Pope.—This, and this alone, is Catholic faith. Besides this, some divines believe the Pope infallible; others do not, but believe the general council superior to the Pope. This is all speculation; but the first assertion is absolutely and universally believed. You have displayed much ignorance of Catholic faith, in speaking of the church militant. The church militant is the same thing as the church in this world: you have made them distinct from each other. The church militant is distinguished from the church triumphant—The church triumphant is formed of those who have finished their mortal career, and are now in the enjoyment of that heavenly rest, which their triumphs over the devil, the world, and the flesh, have merited. M. B.

AMERICAN PROSPECTS

In whatever light the United States are considered, says the Baltimore Federal Republican, it is very apparent that they are destined to fill an important space amongst the community of independent nations. This idea prevails not only in this quarter of the globe, but in Europe likewise. Turning over the pages of an English publication, we found these sentiments expressed—"The Americans possess a sort of adventurous enterprize, under the pressure of every difficulty, that ought to put England upon her guard; this is evident," continues the writer, "from the events of the last war, and demonstrates, (in his opinion) that the United States are to become, and at no distant day, the rivals of the English." This sentiment is expressed by an English writer, at a season when one would deem it almost incredible that he could have entertained a thought so despanding; at a season when Buonaparte, lately the conqueror of Europe, lies like a victim at his feet, imploring his mercy—when France is humbled, and when all the allies of Europe seem to regard England as the prime mover of the Continental machine; when his government was never more formidable to their neighbors, either in the field or in the cabinet; when they are spreading over the rich domains of India, to an almost immeasurable extent; when, in short, their victories and glory abroad, can only be rivalled by their security at home. Why does this writer express himself in such despanding language, at a season like this? What is there in the growth of so young a nation as ours to cast a shade on the glittering visions by which he is surrounded? Is the prospect of a nation yet in its infancy, capable of exciting such serious alarm to a people almost as familiar to victory and glory as they are to the rays of the sun? Are we then, as Americans, to feel no exultation, no honest pride in all this? Are we to be told that we flatter ourselves with the contemplation of dreams of unreal greatness, when we see such sentiments expressed by those who had formerly been taught to despise us as unworthy of notice? No, fellow-citizens, this is not the fact—England beholds her own laws and institutions, all the free principles of her constitution, expanding themselves over a whole continent, instead of being pent up in an island. She knows that these laws have been, as it were, the nursery of her greatness—that the freedom in which we have been brought up, leads to noble daring. Now it may be said that all this is but the ravings of fancy—let us then cast our eyes towards the Western wilderness, and behold those forests that have been the asylum of savage beasts and savage men, falling beneath the sturdy axe of the husbandman—the spires of our temples glittering over the haunts of the tiger—let us behold the waters of our native lakes, those immense inland seas, whitening with the snowy wings of commerce—let us behold the brown Indian plunging deeper into the recesses of the wilderness, as if to screen his eyes from the dazzling beams of civilization that penetrate the foliage—let us behold all this, and doubt, if we can, that these English jealousies and apprehensions are well founded.

"Herculem ex unque," has been long known as a proverb, and it is an acknowledged fact, that English troops do not display the same bravery, the same enterprise, the same thorough-going confidence of triumph, when contending with Americans, that they do when contending with any other foe. How shall we account for this? Probably in this way, that the English find the same indomitable spirit as animates their own bosoms—undisciplined valor, that rushes headlong on the hostile bayonet—a contempt of death united with an avarice of glory.

The English see this, and they are disconcerted at beholding these evidences of a spirit so nearly akin to their own—they respect in a foe, what they have been taught to respect in themselves.—They feel that the contest is between freemen and freemen, not between freemen and slaves. The Americans display the same vigor in the arts as they do in the field; and in one more century it will be seen, whether our countrymen will not become formidable rivals in both.

Franklin's Music Warehouse, Boston. This is an establishment, of which as Americans & Bostonians, we are proud. The building, which is very lofty & spacious, and devoted entirely to the object of the institution, is erected on the very spot where our illustrious Franklin, the great patron of the arts and sciences, first drew breath. From this circumstance it takes name. The enterprising individuals engaged in this business, have vested a capital to the amount of fifty thousand dollars The workmen are all native born Americans, of perfectly regular habits, and the greater part them with families The pursuit in they are engaged, is the manufactu musical instruments of every descrip —from the sonorous and full-toned to the flute and flageolet.

We understand they have attained great a degree of excellence in their fession, that no imported in truncata any way superior to those of their facture; and so strong is their desi effect something honorable to the Am can name in connection with the that they do not admit the slightest sistance from any foreigner whatev They have lately furnished a church Charleston, S. C. and another in P dence, with large and superb or which we understand, gives perfect isfaction. NARRATIVE

OF THE EXPEDITION TO AMELIA ISLA

[BY ONE CONCERNED.]

Part the FIRST—From the commenc ment of the enterprize to the captur of Fernandina.

(CONCLUDED.)

Rendered confident by these ass rances, Col. Posey left New-York o the 4th of May, 1817, with the mo sanguine hopes of success, and wi the determination of attacking Am lia Island so soon after his arrival Savannah, as fifty men could be pro cured for the service. Delayed contrary winds, he did not reach Sa vannah until about the 20th of May when he immediately entered upon t objects of his mission with the most zeal and industry. Several merchant were found in that city willing to ris a small capital in the expedition, pro vided they could be satisfied that would meet with support in the mo wealthy cities of the north. Col. Po sey frankly disclosed to them the na ture and amount of the resource which might be expected from that quarter, and they at length agreed t furnish him with thirty thousand dol lars. With a part of this sum he im mediately set about to procure provi sions, arms and clothing for 100 men and by dint of incessant application found himself in a condition to com mence active operations about the 18th of June. Every thing was provided but troops...and they, he was induced to believe, might be had in sufficient numbers at any time. Prudence for bade him to attempt to raise those u til the last moment of his departure In this stage of his preparations, he heard of the arrival of Gen. M'Gre gor at Charleston, S. C. and re soon received a letter from the Gen ral, requesting his attendance in th city. He instantly complied with thi request; and was not a little surpri sed to discover, upon a conferen with the General, that he had com on to Charleston, utterly destitute resources for the expedition; and wa informed that it would be necessary to draw upon the funds in Savannah for the purchase of a vessel in Charles ton, which might be supplied with few guns, and would serve as a trans port. The General accordingly wa furnished with 17,000 dollars out the 30,000 raised in Savannah, thro the agency of Col. Posey, and after purchasing a vessel to answer his pur pose, and appointing a place of ren dezvous for the troops, about 50 miles distant from Amelia Island, Col. Po sey was sent back to Savannah, with orders to be at that place with as ma ny men as he could collect by a cer tain day, at which time Gen. M'Gre gor would meet him in the armed brig which he had purchased, and with 100 men. On the 25th of June, Genera M'Gregor arrived at the place ap pointed with about 60 souls, including officers and men, and the crew of the brig, where Col. Posey had been wait ing for him several days, with 40 or 50 officers and privates, most of whom were sailors, taken from the shipping at Savannah.

On the 27th of June, the whole of this force proceeded for Amelia, the General by sea in his brig, and Col. Posey in open boats through what is called the Inland Passage. It was supposed that they would probably ar rive before Amelia at the same time, and thus make a combined attack up on the works at Fernandina. The General, favored by a fair wind, ar rived off Amelia bar on the 28th of June, where he continued waiting for the arrival of Col. Posey until the 29th. Impatient of longer delay, on that day at 3 P. M. he landed on the enemy's shore, about four miles from the town of Fernandina, with a force of 54 men, officers and privates; after marching three miles up sea beach unmolested, crossed a d morass, in reach of the guns from block house, and presented him upon an eminence in rear of the to and within musket shot of the li which had been erected for its defe Not a gun had been fired by the e my during his approach to this p tion, and his farther progress was rested by the appearance of a flag truce, which had been sent out by commandant, Morales, to prop terms of capitulation.—These w soon entered into, and 30 minutes ter he had placed himself before town, the Patriot flag was seen ving over a fort which contained or 12 guns, and was garrisoned 54 regular troops, independent of or 30 citizens, who had armed th selves for the defence of the place

Sully for Sale.

THIS estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty two miles from Alexandria, and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry, Plaister of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and those, now untilled, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed: the outhouses are conveniently situated, and the whole have been lately thoroughly repaired and painted. The farm houses, which are all nearly new, are expensive and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate for an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincumbered.

A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds, and the crops of the present year, if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.

Application may be made to the subscriber, living on the premises, next the post-office at Pleasant Valley, in Fairfax.

I will give the above reward if taken more than ten miles from town, ten dollars if taken out of the district, and five if taken within the district. I forewarn all persons from harboring or carrying off said boy, as I am determined to have such offenders punished to the extent of the law. T. MOUNT.

GREAT BARGAINS.

THE subscriber intending shortly to remove to the southward, offers for sale to the highest bidder, on Monday the 13th day of October next, if fair, if not, the next fair day, 1 tract of LAND, containing 77½ acres, it being a part of an undivided tract of land called Buckley's Tract. There is on this tract a dwelling house, with several rooms, fine springs and rivulets of excellent water, an excellent apple orchard of early and late fruit, also a peach orchard, and about 25 acres of wood land annexed. This farm produces exceedingly well, and is divided into two fields.

Also, one other tract of LAND, containing 56 acres, called Pritchart's Tract. About one half of this tract is in fine thriving timber and wood land, with a proportion of good low ground suitable for meadow.

Also, I will lease for two lives, (ages 23 and 34 years) or for a term of years, one other tract of LAND, on which I reside, containing, by actual survey, 832½ acres. The improvements are a small dwelling house, granary and corn house, meat house, large stable not yet covered, cabins for Negroes, &c. This tract abounds with many pure and delightful SPRINGS and branches of water, which never fail, with about 50 acres of thriving timber and wood land; also, an apple orchard, with a number of bearing peach trees of the most delicious kind. About 400 grafted apple trees in nursery of the choicest selected latter fruit. This farm is under a tolerable good fence, and divided into two fields. These three tracts lie adjoining, and will be sold separate to suit purchasers, and it can be proved these tracts were originally of the first quality high lands, with white flint and grey stone (mostly piled) soil of a chocolate color, and produces good crops of corn, wheat, rye, oats, tobacco, potatoes and vegetables, &c. &c. abounding in grass, which affords a fine natural pasture for stock of every kind. A small lot of this land was sown in clover, which produced a fine crop without the aid of manure or plaster. There is about 20 acres of high and low grounds, well taken in Timothy, and at least 40 more of low ground is, which might easily be converted into meadow with but little expense.—About 20 acres of fallow will be sown in rye, and any person who may purchase shall have liberty to seed about 70 acres of corn land immediately, or fallow and seed any quantity they please. On the east and west side of these lands there is a very extensive range for stock. On this tract there is an excellect seat for MILLS or other MACHINERY on a never failing stream—the fall so great having been levelled, the water may be worked over twice. A part of the materials for building a mill has already been procured. This year plaster has been tried for the first time on this land upon corn with admirable effect. One of my neighbors plastered a clover lot adjoining this land last spring, which produced a very abundant and excellent crop. It is now the opinion of those who have tried the plaster on lands in this settlement, that it acts as powerfully here as on the Loudoun lands. Those who may disbelieve it I invite to come and see for themselves. These lands lie about 2 1-2 miles south east of Centreville, 2 miles only from the turnpike road—20 miles from Alexandria, George own and the city of Washington, and is so extremely healthy, having no marshy lands near it—the situation high and agreeably diversified—the air so pure and salubrious, that during the five years past, the time I have had this farm in possession not one death by sickness has occurred in my family of more than thirty persons, of white and black. Nothing but the want of funds to improve these lands possessing so many natural advantages, induces me to dispose of them. Possession of the two last described tracts will be given the purchaser on or before the first day of November next; a good and indisputable title will be made to the purchaser, and the lands shewn to any person who may wish to view them before the sale.

TERMS of sale for the lands, one half cash in hand, the other half in 12 months, the purchaser giving bond with two approved securities.

Will be sold at the same time and place for CASH in hand, upwards of 100 barrels of good corn standing in the field—likewise the fodder—also, several valuable NEGROES, HORSES and gig, MULES, CATTLE, among which, are some good milch cows and one yoke of oxen, SHEEP, HOGS, FARMING UTENSILS of various descriptions. HOUSEHOLD and KITCHEN furniture. Sale to commence at 12 o'clock—For further particulars apply to the subscriber living on the premises. All persons to whom I am indebted will please present their claims, on, or soon after the day of sale, if convenient, otherwise I shall call on them and adjust all outstanding claims.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

Lee's Medicine Store,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly gratifying to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of b'ood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric'l affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Toothe Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
